

International conference GLOBALISING SOCIOLINGUISTICS 3: LANGUAGE AND INEQUALITY

Tallinn University School of Humanities

August 22, Thursday

9.30-11.00	Keynote talk by Reem Bassiouney: M-225 Arabic Sociolinguistics: Addressing the trap of access and inequality in a globalized setting
	Coffee-break
11.30-13.30	session A1: M-342	session A2: M-135	Session A3: M-648
	Kosuke Hinai, Samuel Vernet, Homosexuality in spontaneous speech of French adolescents: an insight into the heteronormative order	Anastasiia Ryko, Change of "language roof": inequality of idioms and trajectories of changes (Russian-Belarusian border dialects)	Gergely Szabó, Diasporization as a rhizomatic sociolinguistic experience
	Kyoko Satoh, Negative evaluation as working women's means to establish their own identities in narrative interviews	Katarzyna Konczewska, Languages, cultures, and self-identification on the Polish-Belarusian borderland: a case study of the micro area in the historic Grodno region	Ekaterina Protassova, Maria Yelenevskaya, The changing role of Russian as a global language
	Pertti Hietaranta, More equality via translation? Is your boss in your own language still a foreman or is your boss a supervisor?	Liina Lindström, Maarja-Liisa Pilvik, Helen Plado, Triin Todesk, Role of language ideologies in language shift: the case of Võro and Seto languages	Andrian Vlahov, "Our mother tongue is what's in the documents": creating and furthering linguistic inequalities through the Russian indigenous peoples registry
	Jan Patrick Zeller, Julka – an eponym creating inequality in discourse during the 2020–2021 women's strike protests in Poland		Ibrahim Alkhateeb, The sacred and the secular: two contended belonging
	Break for lunch

15.00-17.00	session B1: M-342	session B2: M-135	session B3: M-648
	M. Rafael Salaberry, Misguided perspectives on the “neutral” meaning of the masculine generic in Spanish	Avneet Sharma, Native speakers’ attitudes towards foreign-accented Estonian speech	Rebecca Mitchell, ‘Speak to me in my language and I’m healed’: social hierarchies and language management in healthcare communication in Ghana
	Monika Konert-Panek, Kamila Miłkowska-Samul, Rap music and misogyny: exploring linguistic representations of women in English, Polish, and Italian hip-hop	Irina Liskovets, The “nasty” sounds in the Eastern-Slavonic context	Jekaterina Kalēja, Ilze Mileiko, Managing inequalities related to mental illness: rhetorical strategies in stories of people with experience of mental illness
	Oksana Khrystenko, Apologists for the odiousness: conveyed implicatures about non-binary identities in DWDS-Corpus	Hasan Berkcan Simsek, Lexical choices and their impact on attitudes: a study of Arabic and Persian loanwords in Turkish	Nino Daraselia, Disability terms and in/equality
	Zoi Tatsioka, Language choices in opinion pieces on same-sex marriage rights in Greece: a sociolinguistic analysis	Huang-Lan Su, Navigating linguistic inequalities: negotiating with the Mandarin-dominant policy in Taiwanese-speaking families	Katrine Kehlet Bechsgaard, Disorder or difference? Language and perceptions of neurodivergence in Denmark
	Walk to the Old Town
18.00-...	Conference dinner at Maikrahv restaurant in the Old Town

August 23, Friday

9.30-11.00	Round table led by Lesley Milroy: M-225 Methods in sociolinguistic research: traditions and innovations
	Coffee-break
11.30-13.30	session C1: M-342	session C2: M-135	session C3: M-648
	Olesya Palinska, "Infringement of the rights of the Russian-speaking" and "linguistic discrimination": myths and reality of the linguistic situation in southern Ukraine on the eve of a full-scale Russian invasion	Hanna Lappalainen, Lotta Aarikka, Sanna Aaltonen, Young people, language use and social distinctions	Helena Hanneder, Mimicry of a German counselling website on abortion: an analysis of presupposition and implicature
	Viktoriia Ryhovanova, Diverse functions but unified voices: language's path to solidarity in Ukraine	Fidan Garashli, Code-switching and social class: examining the role of language variation in shaping social hierarchies in Azerbaijani professional music contexts	Grégoire Andreo, Discursive form of manipulation in a French cult's speeches
	Anna Verschik, Kapitolina Fedorova, Reversing language hierarchies: identity construction in language-focused Ukrainian Facebook communities	Yuko Tomoto, How linguistic inequality is caused in Japanese conversation and how the speakers are influenced by the language they use	Ilenia Del Popolo Marchitto, Gender-related stereotypes in linguistic perception: an empirical study
		Kerttu Rozenthalde, Estonian-English bilingual students at the University of Tartu: Leading the race to the top?
	Break for lunch

15.00-17.30	session D1: M-342	session D2: M-135	session D3: M-648
	Kapitolina Fedorova, Natalia Tšuikina, Multilingual Tallinn: linguistic landscape and soundscape studies	Munirah A. AlAjlan, Discursive practices of hate speech and cyberbullying: an analysis of Twitter hashtags in the context of the COVID-19 pandemic	Stephen A. Bahry, Tojiniso Olimnazarova, The potential for reducing language hierarchies and monoglossic ideologies in education among dominant, non-dominant; international national and local languages in Tajikistan
	Enikő Biró, 'Not of one blood' – Languages and inequalities in the linguistic landscape of football	Luca Iezzi, English as a divisive tool: Instagram posts on 2023 Israel-Hamas conflict	Mir Afzal Tajik, Duishonkul Shamatov, Potential benefits and barriers to English-medium instruction (EMI) Policy: University students' and instructors' views and turbulent transition to EMI environment in Kazakhstani Universities
	Tiun Hak-khiam, Writing for fun or for fame? Reasons for acceptance or rejection of Martian script in the official Taiwanese linguistic landscape	Irini Koutrouba, Immigrants' (anti)-racist discourses and ethno-cultural identities construction on TikTok: a discourse centred and digital ethnographic study	Malike Zharmukhambetova, Sulushash Kerimkulova, "I am Nobody": Impact of Language Ideologies on Practices of Ethnic Minority Students in the Context of Trilingual Education in Kazakhstan
	Jasmin Jusufi, Senad Jusufi, Exploring multilingualism in Prizren, Kosovo: a comparative analysis of language policy and linguistic landscape	Marta Dąbrowska, Are language equality regulations a threat to the freedom of speech? An online debate about gender-neutral pronouns	Gulzhana Kuzembayeva, Stephen A. Bahry, Navigating Kazakh-Russian-English trilingualism in West Kazakhstan: English teachers' codeswitching beliefs, attitudes, and practices
		Azad Mammadov, Some linguistic aspects of Donald Trump's communication style	Feruza Shermatova, Maksat Totobayev, Stephen A. Bahry, Language majors in Bishkek and Osh, Kyrgyzstan and their multilingual / plurilingual language ecologies: beliefs, attitudes, and practices

August 24, Saturday

9.30-11.00	Presentation by Yaron Matras's newly released book: M-225 Speech and the City. Multilingualism, Decoloniality and the Civic University
	Coffee-break
11.30-13.30	session E1: M-342	session E2: M-135
	Christian Rathmann, Peter Romanek, Jari Pärigma, Sandra Laurimaa, Sign language choice in multilingually diverse settings in Austria, Estonia, Hungary and Germany: a comparative sociolinguistic study of sign language attitudes	Kristel Algvere, Estonian teachers' attitudes to the "Dictionary of Standard Estonian" and towards their students' vocabulary
	Anna Mammitzsch, "You speak better than the Queen of Sweden" - Othered through accent, a study of German migrants in Sweden	Ivan Silobrić, The culinary lexicon of Standard Serbian and Standard Croatian: the origins of their differences
	Tianning Zhai, Beyond norms: the complexities of accent tolerance in Mandarin	Wisdom Jude, English phrasal verb perception and application in communication among Nigerian undergraduate students
	Hasan Berkcan Simsek, Onur Tuncay Bal, Criminalization of languages in Turkey: navigating language attitudes through machine learning	Bodó Csanád, Dobos Mária, Fehérvári Anikó, Gáspár Judit, Szabó Gergely, Széll Krisztián, Collaborative writing for tackling inequalities
	Break for lunch

15.00-17.00	session F1: M-342	session F2: M-135
	Konstantin Zamyatin, Normative foundations of Russia's language policy: the principle of equality of languages	Naoko Hosokawa, From inequality to equality: examination of clear language initiatives for English as a lingua franca
	Laura Dall'Agata, Language planning and education in Estonia: a case study	Emilia Milano, Christoph Purschke, Language choice and negotiating power: examining stance in Luxemburgish user
	Lucija Šimičić, Ivana Škevin Rajko, „Enthusiasm for Na-našo language learning is dwindling“: On (im)possibilities of providing minority language education in Italy	Beth Hanley, The impact of inclusive language use in English to French simultaneous interpreting on interpreting students' stress and output: A pilot study
	Jack Greeney, Awadhi and India's New Education Policy: a policy and attitudinal analysis	Ahmed Metwally Abdalla, Exploring phonetic variations and identity negotiation: Arab students in the Turkish linguistic milieu
17.00-18.00	Closing discussion led by Dick Smakma: ATRIUM		